

Identify an “assessment guru” on the faculty who will singlehandedly complete the effort.

Study the CTE assessment parody videos for tips on best practices

Hold a faculty meeting to discuss the learning goals the Center has for its degree.

Quickly survey graduating seniors to get some idea of how well they learned

Use a curriculum map to identify the courses in which each program learning goal is addressed

Work with KU’s Blackboard team to collect data from rubrics in each assessed course.

Throw one’s hands up in the air and scream aloud to the cosmos.

Draft your complaints and nail on the program director’s office door.

Laptop

Glue stick

Hard Copies of 1000
Graded Assignments

A pair of clean
underwear

Bottle of Jim
Beam

Ping-pong ball

Mobile hotspot

A copy of Creative Budgeting, autographed by
Sam Brownback

Port-a-potty

A collection of CTE
parody videos

A selfie stick

Josh Potter's
phone number

Shark repellent

A 50-year collection of Assessment Illustrated,
autographed by
Barbara Walvoord.

A rubber duckie

Arm floatie

